STATE OF IRELAND

Dublin, Wednesday.
The Bantay Land League yesterday gave orders to Boy Mr. J. G. Barrett, agent to Lord Kenmare; Godfrey, his bailiff; Manning, the farmer who prosecuted Messrs. Healy and Walsh at the Cork Assizes; and three other farmers who are accused of being land-grabbers. Mr. Barrett's servants have been required to leave, and the local trade-men enjoined not to work for him. Several traders in Bantay yesterday refused to sell him goods.

A specially convened meeting of the Kilkenny Corporation was held today, the Mayor presiding, to consider a motion by Mr. James Loughlin, proposing to confer the freedom of the city on Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, in recognition of his efforts to benefit the condition of the people of Ireland. After a short discussion the motion was unanimously passed.

The servants of Dr. Blackall and Mr. William Cannon, Cloughan, Kildysart, who are being boycotted for not having given in their adhesion to the Land League, are being closely watched. One of Mr. Blackall's men purchased some bread yesterday, alleging that it was for himself, but on being tracked he was seen to enter the doctor's house. He has been threatened with boycotting.

It will be remembered that an effort was made to hold a tenant right meeting in the Gool Templar Hall, Bangor, county Down, last Friday, but the Orangemen of the district having previously taken possession of the building, the meeting was postponed until today, when it was arranged to hold it in the open air. As rain fell to-day very heavily the meeting could not be thus held, and accordingly an adjournment to the Good Templar Hall took place. A few feet apart from that hall is an Orange Hall. The Orangemen held the latter edifice to overflowing, and with drums, fife, etc., kept up such an uproar that it was almost impossible for the tenant-right speakers to make themselves heard. At the tenant-right meeting resolutions were passed expressing disapproval and condemnation of the outrages that have been committed in some parts of Ireland, and disclaiming that meeting had any connection directly or indirectly with the Land League; that the best mode of settling the land question is by the establishment of a peasant proprietorship; that as the Ulster custom has failed to protect the tenants from arbitrary increases of rent on their own improvements, the meeting prayed the Government to introduce such measures as will confer on every occupier in Ireland sixty of tenure at fair rents and free sale. Sympathy was expressed with the present Government, and confidence that the names of Messrs. Gladstone, Bright, Forster and Chamberlain are guarantees that justice will be speedily done to Ireland. The meeting deplored the rejection of the Disturbance Bill by the House of Lords, and trusted their action towards the forthcoming Bill will not be such as to coerce the people to consider the propriety of abolishing the hereditary House of Lords. A strong body of constabulary were present, and there was great excitement, but no rioting took place.

A correspondent in Dublin telegraphed to us last night:—As the meeting yesterday at Ouloughlin, in Queen's county, is the first which has been stopped by the Government on other grounds than an apprehended breach of the peace, it may be well to publish the placard on which Mr. Forster acted. It is admitted that a meeting called avowedly to threaten an individual is illegal, and may be prevented, and the Ouloughlin meeting, together with the Durrrow meeting, which was the same under another name, was of this nature. The placard, which was extensively posted in the neighbourhood last week, was as follows:—

"Monster Indignation Meeting at Ouloughlin, Durrrow, the 19th of Dec. at 1 o'clock. Trains will run to suit the trusted members of the Irish party. Davitt and Boyton will be on the ground to lift their voices in solemn protest to Heaven against the most cruel and fiendish injustice ever prepared against the children of the soil since Saxon first set his foot upon our shores—an unheard of brutality. Seventy-nine tenants, wives, and children, and labourers perishing in the ditches of Ballykealy, victims of bankruptcy, buried at their unfeeling heads by a parson landlord and brother-in-law—Bob Owen, of Belmont. English justice offers rewards of £200 for the conviction of the poor wretches who, fired by the wild justice of revenge, take the law into their own hands and destroy a Scull, a Leitrim, or a Mountmorres; but what does English justice offer the oppressed tenant of Ireland to shield them against a tyrant who would leave 79 human beings to pine away in the slow death of hunger in the frozen ditches of Ballykealy."

"Take notice, this is the first time in the whole history of landlordism, villany and despotism that this summary and fiendish ruin by bankruptcy has been attempted on the tiller of the soil. It is simple vengeance, simple annihilation. If once submitted to or tolerated for an instant it will become a standing precedent for all future tyrants. It will be the facile machinery to work extermination against thousands and thousands throughout the land. "Men or Kilkenny and Queen's county poor in Ouloughlin on Sunday, the 19th, in a stream of national and indignant determination where the burning eloquence of the great Irish leaders, your trusted friends in need, will assemble the meeting, great in its significance and great in its result. There is a voice of thunder that will awaken the whole of Ireland; record your protest against Bob's ideas of justice between landlord and tenant, crush, at the very outset, the most fiendish blow ever yet levelled at a downtrodden, rack-rented, and impoverished people! Rise in the power and numbers of the strength of your manhood. This will be the sole, the awl, the end, and the last of the jobs cobbled by such journeymen for respectable farmers.

"The land for the people. God save Ireland."

A correspondent sends us the following:—Owing to the reports in the Liverpool newspapers, it was generally believed that Mr. Benice Jones's cattle and sheep, which had been so persistently "boycotted" in Ireland, had been sent to London. This, however, appears not to have been the case. They have suffered severely since their arrival in Liverpool. Owing to the disinclination of salesmen to meddle with the stock, the first consignees immediately on their landing refused to accept delivery. They were then sent to the fields of a well-known firm of American cattle salesmen, who in turn declined to receive them. The bewildered drover then succeeded in placing them in a field where stock is received by the night. The owner of this land, on finding to whom the sheep and cattle belonged, had them cleared off the land. Finally, a firm of Scotch cattle salesmen took charge of the animals. It is understood that the Liverpool cattle market is a Manchester butcher, who thought it prudent to take them away before daylight yesterday morning, but I have not learned whether or not the cattle were sold. Butchers from the Irish districts in Liverpool gave Mr. Benice Jones's stock a wide berth.

Our (Press Association) Cork correspondent telegraphs:—Mr. Benice Jones, in an interview on Saturday, stated that the troops were sent to him on a requisition he made to Mr. Forster. He denied that there was any dispute between himself and his tenants, or that his labourers had left him in consequence of the threatening letters received by them. A London engineer had written to him stating that there were four hundred navvies ready to go over for his protection. He intends to leave the country when this affair is settled. As yet he has received no injury except that his cattle are unattended, and he has plenty of provisions available.

In order to strengthen the civil force in certain parts of Ireland, and particularly Dublin, 300 experienced constables of the metropolitan police force have been selected for that service.

Mr. Neale, potato merchant, Bristol, has received a letter signed John Bull, with a skull and cross bones. The writer asks if he is prepared to meet his God, and adds, "If one Irishman or woman is known to unload one sack of potatoes from your ships in Bristol you will come to an untimely end. Irishmen are living well, while Bristol men are starving. We won't do it with blackened faces, like your rotten countrymen, but with calm white English ones." Mr. Neale is an Englishman by birth and parentage.

A tenant farmer at Warrenpoint, county Down, has publicly contradicted the report that he has paid his rent. The report, he affirms, is without foundation.

A young man named M'Morrow arrived at Glenferrie from England on Sunday, on a visit to friends, but, not being a member of the Land League, he was boycotted and forced to return to England yesterday.

Mr. T. R. Swift McNeil, who conducted the prosecution on behalf of Mr. Richard Stackpole, of Edenvale County Clare, against Martin Walsh, the tenant evicted, but subsequently reinstated, has been boycotted, all branches of the Land League being warned to have no professional dealings with him.

At Kildysart, yesterday, it was resolved that bakers, smiths, shopkeepers, and labourers should refuse further dealings with persons not members of the Land League. A man named Kelly, of Logboy, who is a member of the Claremorris Land League Committee, has been obliged to have police protection for his cattle, he having, in the opinion of the Logboy Land Leaguers, broken the League rules by paying rent.

At Killarney market fifty pecks potatoes belonging to the Magillcuddy were boycotted because the owner had not complied with the Land League rules.

Mr. Reidy, of Ennis, grocer and wine merchant, was boycotted at Newmarket-on-Fergus last yesterday. He had sheep for sale, and the boycott brand was placed on them by a man who was apprehended. Mr. Reidy was vice-president of the Clare Farmers' Club before its amalgamation with the League. It was his car that the police took to convey a prisoner to Tuam, hence the boycotting.
